About Ample Power Company

We've been selling Smart Battery Management Systems since early 1987.

The first diesel battery charger was sold in 1988 and is still in service. The owner of that system replaced the original batteries after 18 years!

Ample Power systems charge, monitor, and protect batteries in some of the world's harshest environment . . . offshore sail and power vessels, ocean research buoys, remote telcom sites and mountain top radio repeater sites.

If you need a power system that is reliable, highly functional, and automatic, make it Ample.
